About Health Imaging Hub:

Health Imaging Hub is a leading medical imaging and healthcare IT website with an emphasis on e-learning, online education, global news and industry resources that began with an aim to provide readers and advertisers a global perspective with regionally focused coverage. Since its inception in April 2010, Health Imaging Hub has significantly increased its subscriber database and today is considered one of the top preferred online destinations for medical imaging and healthcare IT professionals worldwide.

Health Imaging Hub is registered in the U.S. under NZH Tech, Inc. Imaging technology experts, medical imaging scientists and online marketing specialists launched Health Imaging Hub after carefully evaluating the need assessment for e-learning and regionally focused information by connecting imaging experts to developing countries all over the world. This not only filled an existing knowledge gap but has also opened up numerous opportunities for imaging companies to expand their business globally.
